CHILDREN'S ARTWORK COMPETITION

The LASA National Congress Children's Artwork Competition invites budding artists aged between 8 and 13 to create a piece of artwork depicting how they imagine themselves staying active as they age. This might be playing sport, working in the garden, dancing, lifting weights or doing yoga!

All entries will be displayed at the LASA National Congress and will be judged by the Congress delegates. The winner will be announced on Friday 1 November 2019 and notified by phone.

What's this about?

The Leading Age Services Australia (LASA) National Congress on Better Ageing Futures - it's in our hands is an opportunity to rethink current views on ageing. With this in mind, LASA is running a Children's Artwork Competition asking today's youngest generation to imagine how they would age well.

We are inviting budding artists aged between 8 and 13 to create a piece of artwork on the attached canvas, depicting how they imagine themselves staying active as they age. This might be playing sport, working in the garden, dancing, lifting weights or doing yoga!

Then in 25 words or less, we'd like them to tell us about their artwork.

All entries will be displayed at the LASA National Congress from 27-29 October in Adelaide and will be judged by the delegates at the event.

The winner will be announced on Friday 1 November 2019 and notified by phone.

What you need to do:

- Hand out the entry form and artwork canvas to each child
- Talk about how people can stay active as they age. Ask each child to imagine how they would live as they get older.
- Ask them to write about their artwork in 25 words or less
- Fill in the entry form and attach to artwork
- Artwork will be collected on Tuesday 8 October 2019
